

Byzantium: Still Surprising in 2015?

17:00, Tuesday 3rd November 2015
TORCH Seminar Room, Oxford

The British Byzantine Postgraduate Network is a newly established research network aimed at better integrating the vibrant community of early-career scholars researching all aspects of the Byzantine world. The first meeting will involve several short and thought-provoking presentations, as well as a chance to discuss the network's practical aims, inter-institutional collaboration, and possible future events.

The Surprising History of Byzantine Choziba

DANIEL NEARY (Corpus Christi College, Cambridge)

Preliminary Assessment of the Manuscript Tradition of St John Climacus' Ladder of Divine Ascent in Late Byzantium

ELLIOTT MASON (Royal Holloway, London)

Weavers in Byzantium: Unravelling the History of Industry

ANNA KELLY (University of Birmingham)

A Provincial Surprise? Cappadocia's Place in the Medieval Eastern Roman Empire.

NICHOLAS MATHEOU (Pembroke College, Oxford)

Surprising Reasons to Study Late Byzantine Political History

BRIAN McLAUGHLIN (Royal Holloway, London)

All students welcome. The event will be followed by a wine reception.
For additional information, please contact: matthew.kinloch@univ.ox.ac.uk

Funded by: The Oxford Centre for Byzantine Research

In partnership with:

THE OXFORD RESEARCH CENTRE IN THE HUMANITIES

